Public comments on the revised General Plan.

Cookie stated she wanted to toot the horn for all the work that has gone into putting this general plan together. She was in a working group with cattlemen who expressed concerns about not feeling like they had a platform to talk about their problems and this gave them that opportunity. She stated that as a town they thought the only thing they could do is take the cattle to the mountain. Then there were other avenues to address things, like the man who came from Colorado, who gave them a way forward and a logical way to approach town planning. He helped make them feel semi covered with different items that came up with TC. Regarding the changes the working groups made, she reported that they heard from many different sectors and whereas not everyone could get what they wanted, she feels there were some good compromises made. She thanked the PC and TC for all the work they have done on this.

Mayor Cox closed the Public Hearing.
